Excerpt: . . . 11 ical prerequisite to a strong environment. At the center of our ini-tiative is the only Web site we are aware of dedicated to Chinese environmental laws. In China, according to the World Bank, between 1981 and 2001 the proportion of those living in poverty fell from 53 percent to 8 percent. While this indisputably is a laudable accomplishment, what is less clear in 2008 is the percentage of those not living in economic poverty, but environmental poverty. To give just one in-sight regarding air issues alone, particulate levels in Beijing are as much as six times that of New York City. Reportedly, more than 300, 000 people per year die prematurely from air pollution in China. With this backdrop, China is planning to build over 500 coal-fired power plants before 2020. Just today on the Associated Press there was an article: Pollution Turns China River Red and Foamy, Two Hundred Thousand Lose Water. In the face of these issues it is important to make one point clear. From my firsthand observations, what China...
